Gas And Oil Company

Amarillo Gentlemen Organize To Develop Property In Caddo County

On last Tuesday the Amarillo, Texas Oil and Gas Co. was organized under a charter granted in Oklahoma, with headquarters and main offices in Anadarko Caddo county Okla. capital stock $400,000. The Amarillo, Texas Oil & Gas Co. has 2,600 acres of land, with every indication of an immense oil yield in the field where there is much excitement being manifested over the gas and oil discoveries.

The company is composed of D. T. Wren, President, J. H. Gouldy, Secretary, F. B. Gouldy Treasurer and Cashier, all of Amarillo, and J. E. Golden, of Anadarko, General Manager. These gentlemen are all very enthusiastic, as they not only have a large body of land with the best of oil indications, but have oil itself, in what quantity is to be determined just as soon as a well can be put down.

Mr. Wren returned from the field, bringing some of the crude oil which is oozing out of the ground, and Mr. Golden who has been spending a few days in Amarillo, says there is a world of it. Wells are now being sunk in this territory and there is much excitement in that section of Oklahoma over the oil and gas find.

The Wichita Eagle, of Aug. 22, announces that the Whitewater Oil and Gas Co. have struck a flowing well at Gotebo, Okla., and that several big companies from Indian Territory, Pennsylvania and elsewhere, are trying to get leases and buy land:

"One of the greatest oil and gas excitements in the history of the discovery of the products in Western Oklahoma is now on in the eastern part of Caddo county.

"The third well was recently brought in there with a strong out flow, discovered at a depth of 350 feet. Land values have leaped in value, and offers of $10,000 for quarter sections have been refused by farmers in the Gotebo vicinity.

"New capital is rushing into the field. A fourth well has been sunk to the gas strata, and the company is preparing to shoot the well. Experts declare that a gusher will be the result.

"Every available quarter section in the vicinity is being leased for mineral purposes. It is reported that the Standard oil has a man on the ground and that some of the leases recently made were for this company.—Amarillo Herald.

The No-State Convention

The Last Days Session Was Pacific. Fort Gibson to be Capital

Muskogee, Sept., 10.—The constitutional convention of the proposed state of Sequoyah completed its work at noon and adjourned. The constitution as a whole was adopted by unanimous vote after a few amendments were made. An appeal to congress was adopted, asking that tribal schools which cease to exist after March next be cared for by the national government until the state government is established.

The chief matter of interest to night was the fight over the question of the state capital at Fort Gibson for six years, as was recommended by the committee. Eufaula made a fight to have that place substituted for Fort Gibson. There was no other candidate, the other towns preferring to take a chance on a vote of the people. The convention decided to locate the capital at Fort Gibson.

The committee on nominations reported the following for congressmen-at-large: J. R. Thomas, Muskogee, Republican; C. L. Long, Wewoka, Republican; Joe M. LeHay, Claremore, Democrat; D. C. McCurtain, South McAlester, Democrat. Mr. LeHay is a Cherokee and Mr. McCurtain is a Choctaw. The report was accepted.

These candidates are to be voted on at the constitution election and if congress admits the state they will at once take their seats in congress.

A resolution was adopted disclaiming and repudiating the claim put forth by the single state associates that by their action chiefs of the five nations had gone on record as forming a statehood and that they were not opposed to single statehood. The chiefs made public statements declaring themselves forever opposed to any act or word looking to statehood with Oklahoma and that before this convention they wished to so go on record.

The date of the vote of ratification of the constitution was changed from October 18 to Nov. 2. It is proposed by the campaign committee to have a polling place at each of the 645 postoffices of the territory when this vote is taken.

The qualification that a county judge must have been a practicing lawyer for five years was removed today so far as the first election is concerned. The term of office of prosecuting attorney was fixed at four years.

A supreme election board for the first election was created. This board is composed of D. M. Hodge, Broken Arrow; D. N. Robb, Atoka; Carl Pursel, Muskogee, and A. B. Cunningham, Talequah. Two of these are Democrats and two are Republicans. They will canvass the constitution returns and also the first state election.

DIED

Miss Grace Simlar, who has been very ill with typhoid fever for a number of weeks, died at an early hour this morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fletcher, south of the city.

The news of her death will be a great shock to her many friends in the city, who were not aware that she was dangerously ill until within the last few days. Her death will be a personal loss to many of our citizens, as she had by her kind and affable disposition, won hosts of friends during her residence in Anadarko. The funeral services will be held at the Fletcher home tomorrow morning, after which interment will be made in the city cemetery. The Democrat extends sincere sympathy to the friends and relatives who were so sadly bereaved by the death of this young lady, who was loved and respected by all with whom she came in contact.

The center of the great oil and gas field which has recently been discovered and is now being developed. More enthusiasm and excitement has been aroused over these finds of oil and gas in such big paying quantities in Caddo County, than of any like discovered in recent years. Land prices have leaped into thousands of dollars per acre and offers of $10,000 for a single quarter section have been refused. Every available acre has been bought or leased. The third well sunk in the Gotebo field was brought in with a strong flow at a depth of 350 feet.
